DISCUSSING THE BATTLES.

The American and British Naval Opinions Regarding the Yalu Fight.

The Chinese and Japanese Version of the Battle Still Disagree.

London, Sept. 22.—A Times Shanghai dispatch says advices from Chemulpo, dated the sixteenth, say a fleet of thirty-two Japanese transports, convoyed by a number of warships, has arrived there. The transports had on board seven thousand soldiers, three thousand coolies and two thousand pack horses. The troops are being hurried to Seoul, upon which city an attack is expected soon.

The Westminster Gazette says, according to a London news agency, it is rumored in Shanghai that the Japanese fleet in fighting off the Yalu river captured the Chinese transports Chin Tung, Hae Ting, Hsinu and Toonan. The same authority announces under reserve that the Russian minister at Pekin will be recalled and the place filled by the present Russian minister to Japan. A dispatch from Yokohama has been received by a business house requesting that a British gunboat be sent there to protect British subjects.

A telegram received here from Hiroschima says none of the Japanese ships were sunk in the Yalu river engagement, but some were disabled.

The Westminster Gazette publishes a dispatch announcing the safe arrival at Port Arthur of the Chinese transports from which troops were being landed at the mouth of the Yalu river when the attack was made by the Japanese.

Lord Beresford in an interview to-day said that the result of the recent naval engagement between the Chinese and Japanese fleets at Yalu proved the imperative necessity for an adequate number of cruisers. The battle proves the powers of offence of modern fleets are infinitely superior to their powers of defence. "Immediately war is declared," said Lord Beresford, "we ought to attack and never stop attacking."

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—Admiral Carpenter, commanding the Asiatic station, telegraphs the navy department from Tientsin that the Chinese were routed at Ping Yang on the 15th. Six thousand were killed and wounded. The viceroy lost his feather jacket under an edict prior to the recent defeat. In the naval engagement at Yalu on the 17th the Chinese loss was the Chao Tong, Ching Yuen and Chin Yuen sunk and the Yong Wei on shore, partly burned. The Chi Yuen vanished during the fight, and was probably sunk. It is reported that the Japanese lost three vessels.

New York, Sept. 22.—Rear-Admiral Gerhardi was shown yesterday a dispatch from London relative to Captain John Ingles, late naval adviser of the recent decisive engagement between China and Japan. The dispatch contained a strong personal eulogy from Japan on Captain Mahan, of the United States navy, now commanding the Chicago, and was of special interest to Americans generally. "Yes, sir," said the admiral, "I regard Captain Mahan as the greatest living exponent of modern warfare. He has shown himself to be such and his writings are the pride of every true American, while in many other countries they are regarded as of high practical value." The rear-admiral assured the reporter that he had watched events in China and Japan very closely. It was quite natural naval and military minds centred there. He did not care which whipped. "It was," he added, "a case of the Kilkenny cats." Hugging the shore he pointed out as being directly opposed to Captain Mahan's fundamental principle, a fact emphasized in the special dispatch, and in this connection the rear-admiral remarked, "I subscribe to that, but of course in this particular case, and speaking from such a distance, it would not be prudent for me to offer an opinion. I do not know the coast. From all that he had read of the facts, however, and being a thorough believer in Captain Mahan's sound judgment and thorough naval skill, he was, with the captain, of the opinion that the evil of land hugging had caused the inevitable results, which in this case had proven disastrous. Considering the platings on barbettes, it was only natural that dire consequences resulted from the attack upon the Chen Yuen. A great mistake, he thought, had been made in having in that vessel the barbette, instead of having the guns in echelon, which would have saved a gun ship from being reduced to the level of a small cruiser. Admiral Gerhardi agrees with Captain Mahan that small cruisers are more effective than big battle ships, and as illustrating this had noted how much better the smaller ships had fared than their larger colleagues. In conclusion, the rear-admiral again remarked, "Yes, it is quite true that the praise of one of our navy commanders has been again loudly sung in London, but not for the first time, nor undeservedly either."

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—Neither the Japanese nor the Chinese legation has received any advices as to the great naval engagement off Yalu. Lieutenant Miyaoka, the naval attache of the Japanese legation, returned to-day from an eastern trip. He is well acquainted with the scene of the battle, and says that it is so far removed from the Japanese telegraph stations that word would first have to be carried by dispatch boats to Tushima or Nagasaki before the Tokio authorities could be informed of the battle. As the fight occurred last Saturday, it is expected that dispatch boats will have the official version transmitted very soon. Minister Kurino, at the office of the Japanese legation here, regards the cable from Tokio to the Associated Press as giving the most trustworthy report of the engagement yet received, and they are naturally gratified to learn from this source that the Japanese fleet sustained no great damage. They point out that Tokio is but 550 miles from Hiroschima, where the emperor and the headquarters of the army and navy are located, and that there is telegraphic connection, so that Tokio would have the best information from Japanese sources from the imperial headquarters at Hiroschima. Lieutenant Miyoaka, the Japanese naval attache here, says there is no such ship in the Japanese navy as the Abushima, which the Shanghai correspondent says was sunk. There are many ships with the suffix "shima," meaning island, but none have the prefix "Abu," or anything like it. It is thought, however, that the cruiser Sakio, claimed to have been sunk, is the Sikyo. The latter was formerly a fast merchantman between Shanghai and Yokohama, and was recently transferred into a fleet cruiser. Lieutenant Miyoaka says the Yossila, stated in the Shanghai report to have been sunk, is undoubtedly meant for the Yoshin, the pride of the Japanese navy. It would be startling news indeed, he says, if this ship had gone down, but he scouts the idea. She is one of the fastest vessels in the Japanese navy, with the remarkable speed of 23 knots an hour. The Chinese minister declines to discuss the recent battles or any phase of the war. In response to an inquiry to-day he sent word that no advices had been received and that he was very busy. He is building a large ballroom in the rear of the legation, with the prospect of extensive social festivities in the near future. There is apparently no disposition to share in the panic at Pekin over the Chinese reverses on land and sea.

NAVAL OFFICERS FIGHT

Trouble in a Honolulu Barroom—American Version.

San Francisco, Sept. 22.—The United Press correspondent at Honolulu, writing under date of September 15th, per steamer Australia, says: The United States cruiser Charleston arrived here on the 5th, took on coal and sailed for Japan on the 13th. The German warships Arcona and Alexanderine also called here for coal on their way from Callao to Japan. At 11 p. m. on the 10th, in the barroom of the Hawaiian hotel, an affray took place between two officers of the Charleston and a British officer of the Hyacinth, other Americans and Englishmen, the latter getting the worst of it. The officers concerned were confined in their respective ships until the departure of the Charleston, while the Hyacinth's men were barred shore leave. There is a slight tension between Americans and Englishmen, the latter feeling sore over the royalist failure. Peaceable tendencies will doubtless continue to prevail. The new British minister is on good terms with the government.

The French commissioners, Verleu has informed the government that his credentials are on the way addressed to the government of the republic. Over fourteen hundred voters have registered on this island. Most of the natives still believe that the queen will be restored and will hang them if they register. Three weeks still remain for registering. Minister J. A. Thurston returns to Washington to-day.

SALVADOREAN REFUGEES.

Judge Morrow Delivers a Lengthy Decision Dealing With the Case.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 22.—United States District Judge Morrow rendered a lengthy decision to-day in the case of General Ezeta, and the other Salvadorian refugees. Col. Cienfuegos charged with attempting murder is ordered held for extradition as the crime was commitied four months before the revolution begun. Generals Bolanos and Bustamente, charged with the hanging of four unknown persons, are ordered discharged as the evidence adduced was chiefly hearsay. The defendants, except Bolanos, are found guilty of hanging Henriques, and the court also holds that the charges of murder of Col. Canes and the robbery of the Bank of San Salvador are proved and the accused are ordered held.

EUROPEAN NEWS.

The German Government Will Allow Anarchists to Meet.

London, Sept. 22.—The steamer Steinhoft, from Hamburg for Montreal, is ashore at Margate on the Kent bay. She has sustained no injuries. It is believed she will float at next tide.

The German government has decided to permit the sessions of the socialistic congress at Berlin called for to-morrow, but its proceedings will be closely scrutinized. About five hundred delegates have arrived. Fraternal greetings have been received from the socialists of the United States, and a proposition will be submitted for the appointment of a committee to visit that country and report upon the progress of socialistic propaganda.

The Times in an article on the selection of Levi P. Morton as Republican candidate for governor of New York, says: The return of Morton, McKinley and Harrison to power in the councils of their party is at least a suggestion that a better public sentiment has developed—one which will force the machine men of both parties to put up good men for high offices.

Near Limai, on the Turkish frontier and at the head of the Gulf of Volo, Procurer du Roi, judge, and two secretaries, returning in a carriage, accompanied by two gendarmes, from villages where they had been collecting information in regard to brigandage, were surrounded by Papaky Ritsopulos' brigands, who carried off the procurer and judge to their stronghold on Mount Otherys. Later the prisoners were allowed to send word to their friends. The brigands demanded that no pursuit should be made until the ransom was paid. A detachment of one hundred soldiers was sent to attack the brigands. The brigands were exterminated, but the Procurer du Roi was killed and the judge mortally wounded.

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—There is a big drop in the exports for August. Dominion returns show that there are over two millions of a drop compared with August, 1893. The imports stood about the same, but there was a drop of about half a million dollars in the amount of duty collected last month.

LOSS OF THE SENEGAL.

A Sailor Saw Her Disappear in a Storm.

San Francisco, Sept. 21.—The big British ship Senegal is at the bottom of the Pacific, somewhere in latitude 30.17 north, longitude 119.08, for it was in about that locality that C. Olsen, a sailor on the schooner Mary C. Russ, saw her red light go out one stormy night at sea. The Senegal was bound from San Diego to Tacoma with loose sand for ballast. She was a large iron ship of the latest design, and was considered one of the best in the English merchant marine service. The captain was accompanied by his young daughter, and the crew forward consisted of twenty-seven men. It was early in March when the vessel sailed, and the only tidings of her was when Captain Thompson, of the schooner Mary Russ, wrote from San Diego a few weeks ago, saying that he was in company with her on the night of March 18.

Olsen was on the deck of the schooner during the whole night at sea, and he says that the storm that toppled the little schooner about was the worst that he ever experienced during a score or more of years that he has spent on the ocean. The Senegal, he says, was sighted just as darkness was closing in, beating up against a freshening northeaster. By midnight the gale was at its height.

Olsen said he soon began to watch for the gleam of the Senegal's lights. It seemed to him, in his dread of death at sea, like a ray of hope. Several times he missed the light when his vessel rode the crest of a wave, but the Senagal was then down deep in the trough of the sea, and the next minute it would appear. The danger increased, and every man had to hang on for dear life. Just before daylight began to break the red light of the big ship appeared for the last time. The Senegal was on the crest of a wave, when a squall more severe than its predecessors came down upon them. The red light gleamed, then went out for an instant. It reappeared for a moment, then was lost altogether. In vain the schooner Russ watched for it; it had gone out forever, and with it went the lives of her crew. When day broke, about an hour afterward, the big ship was nowhere in sight.

REPORT ON THE SOUND.

British Consuls Preparing a Report for the Government.

Port Townsend, Sept. 21.—British Vice-Consul J. B. Alexander, of Tacoma and Oscar Klocker of Port Townsend, have compiled exhaustive reports of the products, resources, agricultural facilities, stock-raising, milling, mining, fisheries, horticulture, population, tax assessment and financial condition of the state of Washington for the British foreign office. An advance copy of the diplomatic and consular report was received from London to-day. It is conceded to be one of the best and most accurately compiled reports ever published. The consuls estimate the lumber industry alone brought into the state last year $7,083,995. The timber trade is computed as follows: Lumber—foreign, $1,807,000; coastwise, $2,154,614, and rail shipments, $1,502,332. Shingles—foreign, $904; coastwise, $7500, and rail shipments, $1,611,645. They estimate the present standing stumpage in the state at 410,330,000,000 feet, valued at $269,561,329. The coal production last year is estimated at 1,071,878 tons. The Puget Sound salmon pack was 50,000 cases, an increase of 40 per cent. over the previous year. The value of the fishing industry last year on the Sound is estimated at $2,915,000. The cereal output is reckoned thus: Wheat, 12,000,000 bushels barley, 2,000,000 bushels; oats, 4,000,000 bushels, and hay, 500,000 tons. The wheat acreage is estimated at 1,300,000 acres. The value of foreign exports from Tacoma in 1892 was, £643,333; in 1893, £631,976; imports in 1892, £34,554, and in 1893, £11,513. In 1892 Tacoma imported 239,361 pounds of tea, and the following year the shipment decreased to 57,484 pounds. Foreign exports from the state are computed as follows: Wheat, 3,616,350 bushels, valued at $2,340,156; flour, 172,008 barrels, valued at $535,568; oats, 850,000 bushels, valued at $266,000; salmon, 42,244 cases, valued at $211,500, and lumber, 74,374,000 feet, valued at $598,713. They estimate the foreign exports from the state in 1892 at £403,528; in 1893, £317,877; imports in 1892, £49,294, and in 1893 at £19,513.

TO MAKE MATCHES.

[illegible] to Oppose the Match Combine.

New York, Sept. 21.—Not satisfied with owning a large share of the railroads of the country and holding a virtual monopoly of the telegraph lines, the Goulds are preparing to enter the field of manufactures and compete with one of the biggest monopolies in this country, the Diamond Match trust. Edwin A. Gould's name appears in the articles of incorporation of the new company, which were filed at Trenton, N. J., on September 1, by the secretary and treasurer of the new corporation, Col. Wallace Downs of this city. The neworganization is called the Continental Match company, and has offices in Temple Court, and a plant selected in Bloomfield avenue, Passaic, N. J. According to the charter, it is formed for the manufacture of matches and wooden articles. The capital is $1,000,000. President, Edwin A. Gould; vice-president, W. F. Hutchinson; secretary and treasurer, Wallace A. Downs. New match making machines will be used. Each is slightly larger than a sewing machine, having a longer table, and all that seems necessary to make matches is to feed a roll of veneered wood into one end of the machine, and match splits, all cut, fly out at the other end at the rate of 150,000 a minute. Mr. Hutchinson, the inventor, who is a direct descendant of Robert Fulton, the inventor of the steamboat, said briefly about his inventions: "These match machines are patented in every country on the globe, and are fully protected. How much they are in advance of other match making machinery I can show you by telling you that the highest speed heretofore attained by any machine is 8000 matches a minute."

SOVEREIGN GRAND LODGE.

Belief in a Supreme Being to be a Cardinal Qualification.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 22.—Belief in the existence of a Supreme Being is and must continue to be a cardinal qualification for Odd Fellow membership. This is the doctrine that has just been reaffirmed with emphasis by the sovereign grand lodge, and it is probably the first time that that body has pronounced itself strongly on the question. The matter came up through a special report made by Grand Sire Campbell, in which he said: "In the course of correspondence concerning the petition for a grand lodge in Naples, Italy, I had occasion to discuss a question which, while it has not attained any prominence in connection with Odd Fellowship, has more or less affected other benevolent societies in Europe, and that is the development of atheism among certain classes of the people. Odd Fellowship, while it is free from anything of a sectarian character, has always held belief in a Supreme Being as a cardinal principle, and has maintained the Fatherhood of God as a doctrine of equal importance with the brotherhood of man. Concerning the qualities and attributes of the Divine Father it has never undertaken to pronounce with authority; nor does it question the moral character and good citizenship of some of those who declare that they have no belief in a Supreme Being. It simply exercises the right of all voluntary associations to prescribe the qualifications for membership in its [illegible] still insist, that belief in God is necessary to attain or retain a place in our ranks. No one should offer himself for membership in our order who has not this qualification; no one should be accepted without it, and no member who loses his faith in a Divine Father can honestly and consistently remain with us. I think it is very necessary that this cardinal doctrine should be re-stated very emphatically; that it should be distinctly understood in Europe, where all societies have been seriously disturbed by atheistic agitation."

The sovereign grand lodge has also endorsed the views of the grand sire that it is neither desirable nor politic to introduce Odd Fellowship into the British colonies of South Africa except in response to a request of the residents themselves. This question was raised at the instance of an Odd Fellow from Manitoba, who was about to go to South Africa, and desired permission to organize lodges.

AGED PRIEST HONORED.

Title of Monsignor Conferred on Father Croquet.

Portland, Sept. 21.—Father Adrian J. Croquet, of the diocese of Oregon City, celebrated yesterday the fiftieth anniversary of his entrance into the priesthood. In consideration of his long and faithful service the pope has conferred upon him the title of monsignor and raised him to the dignity of a domestic prelate. The event was signalized by most fitting and notable ceremonies, participated in by about fifty priests and bishops, at St. Mary's Cathedral. The services were solemn and impressive, and a similar event in the Catholic church has not been celebrated west of the Rocky Mountains. By the ceremonies Father Croquet is entitled to the honors of a bishop in the Catholic church, without the executive powers and responsibilities. He becomes a domestic prelate of the papal household, and is entitled to wear the purple and ring. Should he visit Rome he will be saluted as a duly adorned and consecrated bishop, and accorded in the papal household all the honors and courtesies.

Father Croquet was born in Belgium of noble parents. He became filled with missionary zeal and, after being ordained a priest he came to this country, and for more than thirty years he has labored among the Indians in Oregon and along Puget Sound.

BOOTH ARRIVES.

Founder of the Salvation Army to Tour [illegible]

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 21.—Gen. Wm. Booth, who founded the Salvation Army, has arrived here. He is the guest of Sir Robert Thornburg, ex-premier. Gen. Booth will make a tour of America, visiting all the large cities in Canada and the United States during the next six months. He will visit Tacoma December 30, Seattle December 31 and January 1. Leaving Seattle, the General will go to Victoria, B. C., and thence traverse the great Canadian Northwest.

Riding to Save Life.

A Georgia newspaper gave an account of the heroism of John Potter, a ten-year-old boy who rode a horse twelve miles to Macon for the purpose of calling a physician to attend his mother, who was believed to be dying with colic. The doctor could not be found, but a kind druggist gave the lad a bottle of medicine, and ordered him to hurry home. The brave lad rode home, delivered the medicine, and then fainted from nervous exhaustion. The medicine cured the sick woman and the boy as well. It is only necessary to say that the precious medicine was Perry Davis' Pain Killer, which never fails to cure disorders of the stomach. 25 cents old popular price, for New Big Bottle.

VICTORIA AT TACOMA.

Splendid Exhibit Made by Pendray & Co.

Tacoma, Wn., Sept. 21.—The first of Victoria's fine exhibit for the interstate fair has arrived and been installed. It is already attracting much favorable comment for its excellency. People of this state generally have never had an adequate idea of the advance the province of British Columbia has made in manufacture. They are now learning from the display Victoria is making that the manufacturing industries of the country to the northward have been well developed. The chief feature of the exhibit is a cask of soap weighing a ton, and made in the factory of the British Columbia Coap Works. It occupies a prominent position in the building of manufactures and liberal arts. The other soap exhibit from the same company is given equal prominence near by. The fine exhibit of bluing, cardboard boxes, stove polish, vinegar and liquid blue occupies a good space in the same building. Brackman & Ker's splendid exhibit of rolled oats is found in the agricultural and horticultural building along with the other mill products. It is expected that the remainder of the Victoria exhibit will arrive in a few days.

Nearly all the county exhibits in the agricultural and horticultural building have now been installed. The latest to arrive is that of Kittitas county, in the middle of the state and just east of the mountains. It includes grains, grasses, fruits, vegetables, minerals and wool, and well represents the diversified resources of the county. Oregon's handsome exhibit was added to yesterday by the arrival of a collection of minerals from the southern part of the state and of a large quantity of fresh fruit.

Director-General Henry Bucey has just returned from a trip to North Yakima, where the state fair is to open next week. It will close September 29. While there Mr. Bucey arranged for the shipment to the interstate fair of all the notable agricultural and horticultural products at the close of the state fair. This addition will make the already extensive exhibit of natural products the most complete ever gathered together in the Northwest. The state fair and the Interstate fair management are working in harmony for the joint advancement of their respective exhibitions. Mr. Bucey is arranging to have a large excursion run from here to the opening of the state fair, and in return the people of Yakima are to bring an excursion from that city to the Interstate.

To the residents of Tacoma and the immediate surrounding the novelty of the Interstate fair has now worn off, and they are beginning to take up the various departments in detail and find out what there is really to be seen. It is the nature of a sight seer to always rush through things at first and get a general idea of what there is. Several weeks of this rushing through have brought the regular visitors to the point where they want to "do" the fair as it should be done. It is this class of regular attendants that are loudest in their praises of the great exposition. They [illegible] that result in bringing to their view more strange, unique and marvellous things than they at first thought the fair contained.

SEALERS OUT OF LUCK.

The Alexander Returns to San Francisco with Very Few Skins.

San Francisco, Sept. 21.—The sealer Alexander, formerly commanded by Captain Sorrenson, arrived in port this morning, having left Hakodate July 2. She brought a very small catch, consisting of 600 seal skins and two sea otter skins. The season was an unfortunate one for the Alexander throughout. On the voyage out from San Francisco the steward made away with considerable of the provisions, which he was accused of disposing of, and the fact necessitated the vessel putting into port on the other side for more provisions. Then Captain Sorrenson was taken sick with heart disease and was put ashore at Hakodate, and from there sent to a hospital at Yokohama, where he died. Captain Riddle brought the vessel home and reports an uneventful trip.

A Perfect Cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"It affords me much pleasure to recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla. My son was afflicted with great pain in the joints, accompanied with swelling so bad that he could not get up stairs to bed without crawling on hands and knees. I was very anxious about him, and having read so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla, I determined to try it, and got a half-dozen bottles, four of which entirely cured him." MRS. G. J. LEAKE, Oshawa, Ontario.

GREAT RAILROAD "WAR."

The Prominent Part He Took in One or Two Indian Skirmishes.

The great railroad strike has produced its writer of fiction, like other national convulsions, and he appears to live in Tacoma, says the Post-Intelligencer. The few skirmishes which marked that struggle in this state fired the imagination of T. H. Adams, who appears to be a member of Troop B, cavalry, N. G. W., and caused him to picture to his parents at his old home at Birmingham, England, scenes of carnage which recall the rebellion. Mr. Adams' letter, which was published in the Birmingham Weekly Post of July 28, does credit to his education at King Edward's school at Birmingham and must gratify the soul of King Edward VI., its founder. The letter is as follows:

"After my last two letters you must have been a little bit nervous, but, thank God, so far I have got through with only a scratch or two. Perhaps, owing to the tie-up of the trains, this letter will get through first, so I will congratulate Everitt Griggs is captain of Troop B, first cavalry of the N. G. W., something between militia and regulars. He was ordered out, with his company, to drive the Indians back to their reservations, they having come out on the warpath as soon as they thought that the palefaces were handicapped and harassed by those awful floods. His company had a complement of 63 men but only 43 had courage enough to respond when called upon. He came to me down at the mill and asked if I, as a great favor to him, would join and go out. I reminded him I was English. He said, 'Yes; an Englishman.' So I collected three other Britishers and went. We found traces of their hellish work between Orting and South Prairie that made our blood run cold. Perhaps it got into the English papers; of course it was kept out of these on account of their vaunted civilization. We trailed them into the Olympic mountains, and by enormous forced marches, and by swimming our horses through the Nisqually and Snake rivers when they were nothing but foaming masses of destruction, bearing down huge logs, etc. About a week before the maddest man would never imagine that there was one chance in ten of getting across alive. Forty four men and thirty-eight horses did it. The remains, scattered and almost unrecognizable, of the three other poor boys were picked up and tenderly buried several miles below. The Indians are descendants of the Crows and Blackfeet. Men who were out scouting discovered them encamped in the bottom of a gulch, about 500 to 600 in number. So sure were they that it was perfectly impossible to get at them that they had not a single guard, and, to all appearances, were going to stay a day or two to feed and rest up their horses. We went back and reported, then we closed up and lay on three sides of the gulch (needless to say, not to windward), about 50 feet apart, and waited for it to get dusk enough to hide our scarcity of numbers. It seemed an eternity, but it really was not more than half an hour before one of our horses neighed, though we were fondling their noses to prevent it. Then came the word to fire. Three times did we load and fire our carbines, and deadly was the effect at that short distance into those groups of men. Then we turned our revolvers loose into the disorganized crowd that was rushing for their ponies, then, loading our revolvers and leading our horses as we ran, we formed and mounted at a run at the top of the glade, and charged. When we had emptied our revolvers we drew our sabres and completed the route. We were too few in numbers, and our blood was boiling at the things we had seen, so we took no prisoners. All our casualties were one man with a broken shoulder and another with a broken collar bone, both of whose horses had fallen in that wild charge over the rough ground. Then for 36 hours we followed them, but never saw them again, of course, and at last made a junction with the infantry outside the reservation. They had marched down a fairly decent road for this country. They brought news of the strike of the men on the railways, and orders for 20 picked men to report back at Tacoma at once. We were then put in charge of a train, and had to bring it here to the limits of the state. Four rode on the engine, two of us on the cow-catcher and other ten slept. The strikers swore we should never get through alive, but we cut the wires ourselves so that they should have no accurate knowledge of our coming, and so have time to destroy any really big bridge. We had to keep a sharp lookout, and yet go as fast as we could to keep ahead of the news that we were coming and to lessen the likelihood of the killing of anyone by the volleys they kept firing into us all along the route. It was ticklish work passing over the Cascade Mountains, now skirting an awful precipice, then rushing over a huge trestlework bridge, far away underneath which a torrent was roaring, and next having to stop, and, under a galling fire, remove some obstacles from the track or straighten out a switch. We had to stop and rebuild two bridges that they had commenced burning. We had got a gang of men on the train for that purpose. One was just round a curve on this side the mountains—they hoped we should not see it in time, and so all get hurled into eternity together. To make doubly sure, at Ellensburg, the station before, some fiend managed to get under the train and cut the pipes of the air brakes, that grade we should then be unable to stop. Luckily, just after pulling out of the depot we found that our commissary man was not on board, and so we tried to stop short, and found out the trouble and rectified it. It was something higher than mere luck. Ten of us take the westbound train back to Tacoma to-night at 11 (300 miles away), or, rather, we are going to have a good try to, and the other ten are going to bring one through to-morrow. The strikers say there has not been a westbound train through yet, and swear there shall not be; and this time, unfortunately, we cannot conceal the time of starting. I must go and turn in and get a little rest as I am in command of the squad, and shall not dare close my eyes this side of Tacoma. Two of the Englishmen are still left and with me, but the other poor boy will never answer to his roll call on earth. A stray bullet found a home on the way up. I will write immediately on arrival."

The Disease Caused Terrible Agony.

CORDS IN THE PALMS OF THE HANDS DRAWN UP IN KNOTS.

Sufferings and Tortures Ended After the Great Medicine Was Used.

In the past thousands have publicly declared that Paine's Celery Compound delivered them from the pains and terrors of rheumatism and terrible sciatica.

The same work is being done to-day on a vastly more extended scale. Martyrs to rheumatism are throwing aside the deceptive and worthless medicines that have no merit, honesty or solid standing, and are demanding Paine's Celery Compound from their druggists and dealers.

They see the wonderful results that have come from the use of Paines's Celery Compound to relatives, neighbors and friends. They also are aware of the fact that every cure published for the encouragement of the sick and suffering comes from some responsible resident of Canada, who can be interviewed or written to.

To-day we give another strong and mighty proof of the never failing power of Paine's Celery Compound. The letter comes from Mrs. Mary McKillop, of Campbellford, Ont. She says:

"After using your Paine's Celery Compound I am of opinion that I should say something in its favor for the benefit of all who have not given it a trial.

"I was a sufferer from rheumatism for a long time, and endured great pain. The cords in the palms of my hands were drawn up in knots, and I despaired of getting relief. However, after using Paine's Celery Compound, I have banished all my pains and troubles, and find myself strengthened in every way.

"I think Paines's Celery Compound is the best medicine in the world for rheumatism and all nervous complaints, and I will always recommend it strongly. I particularly recommend your medicine to all weak and delicate women."

"How," they inquired, with much interest, "do you manage to get along without working?"

"I itve," rejoined the cannibal, as he gestured in the direction of a large pile of whitening bones, "on other people."—Detroit Tribune.

"You don't seem as well known in this city as you were at home," said the visitor. "I'm not," answered the young man proudly. "I don't owe anybody here a cent."—Washington Star.

Surprising Reduction in Dentistry Charges.

What is the use of paying $15 for a rubber plate when you can get a gold one for a few dollars more.

We will for one month from this date make a reduction of 50 per cent in gold plates. This is simply to introduce a genuine 20k gold plate to the people of Victoria.

This plate will last a lifetime and will never require repairing. People will wonder how we can do it, and probably think that inferior workmanship will be done, but we wish to dissuade you of any such notion. Our idea is to make a plate to please the public and get them to try us; consequently we must give an inducement. We will not make any money on these plates, but will feel assured that every plate we make will bring us others. Remember the price will remain as stated for one month only from September 1st to October 1st.

Dr. Findley has charge of this branch and his ability as a mechanical dentist is too well known to need further mention.

N. P. PROMISES.

The Conservative government has a large deficit to show for its last year's financial operations, though one of the cardinal principles of Canadian Conservatism is that there should be no deficits. Our trade is falling off, more especially our exports, while the special mission of the N. P. is supposed to be the increase of exports and the decrease of imports. The whole way over which the N. P. has travelled is freely strewn with broken promises, some of which appear exceedingly ridiculous in the light of after events. In a recent issue the Globe gives a review of these promises, based on the biography of Sir John Macdonald written by Col. Macpherson. Here are a number of the promises made by Sir Charles Tupper and Sir Leonard Tilley in their budget speeches, and reiterated by all the greater and lesser lights of the party:

To abolish business depression.

To stop the exodus.

To turn the "balance of trade" in our favor.

To tax British goods in the bulk less than foreign.

To give the farmer a home market.

To develop our mineral wealth.

To obtain reciprocity with the United States.

To reduce the debt to $100,000,000 by 1890.

To place a million people in the Northwest by 1891.

There is not much need to show how absurdly far from fulfilment these promises have fallen, but the Globe gives a useful summary which we take the liberty of quoting: "It is notorious that there are not a million people in the Northwest, but only 250,000; the net debt is not $100,000,000, but $250,000,000; we have not got reciprocity, it is doubtful indeed if the government will accept the offer of a free exchange of farm implements; there has been no mineral development to speak of, the iron duties having confessedly failed; instead of a home market absorbing their surplus products at high prices, the farmers never so low; British goods in the bulk are taxed more severely than American; since 1879 the so-called balance of trade has been against us to the tune of $200,000,000, as necessarily must happen to a borrowing country situated as this is: the census of 1891 destroys any pretence that the exodus has been stopped; while as for the condition of trade in recent years and now the least said the better. It is easy for a partizan speaker or newspaper to indulge in the vague assertion that the N. P. has been a blessing. But when tried by the only satisfactory test, namely, a comparison of the performances with its promises, in detail, it turns out to have been a general, all-round disappointment; the inference is plain that such progress as has been made since 1878 or 1879 has been made not by reason of it, but by reason of that natural growth and development which all new countries enjoy in a special degree. That it has brought certain infant industries into a cold world and been of more or less benefit to some old ones cannot be denied, but this has been done at the expense of the other industries. And it is doubtful if even the expectations of the favored few have been realized."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Ottawa city council will be asked to by-law imposing a tax of $1 per year on bachelors. No doubt the bachelor will henceforth be a scarce article around the capital.

Mr. Alex. Macdonald writes the following note to the Winnipeg Northwester. Of course it is not the first evidence the people have had in regard to the working of the combines, but it is particularly suggestive evidence:

Sir,—I have been offered by a commission house doing business in St. Paul, Minn., canned goods, packed in Ontario by the Canadian Packing Association, for 20 per cent less than I can buy from this same combine direct. This, however, is not the only advantage the American has over us in our own market. The through rate on freight from point of shipment in Ontario to Winnipeg, as quoted by this American firm, is 54 cents per hundred pounds, while we have to pay the railway combine here 73 cents per hundred pounds on same class of goods.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has an agent at Penticton who seems to be thoroughly imbued with his master's aversion to increasing traffic. At least this would appear from the following incident as told by the Midway Advance:

The C. P. R. are anxious enough, it appears, to get the carrying of Boundary Creek ores to the Tacoma smelter. They certainly need some such traffic to make their boat on Okanagan Lake pay. They are a large corporation and do things on a large scale. In some respects, however, they appear to be microscopically small, as an example will show. Not long ago a gentleman at Midway wrote on behalf of the several Greenwood claim owners to the agent at Penticton asking what rates the company would give on a ton of ore sent to Vancouver for treatment by the cyanide process as a test. He was requested in future, when writing for such information to enclose a three cent stamp. He is not likely to do it or to work up a trade for the C. P. R. either. Boundary Creek ores have been shipped to the coast via Marcus before, and a company that begrudges a three cent stamp is scarcely likely to work up a business with mining men.

The Vernon News says: "The Hon. Wilfrid Laurier and party have met with a reception on the coast, to which, judging from the published reports of the meetings there held, the term enthusiastic but feebly describes. The result of this trip cannot but help to strengthen the intense sentiment of pride in his native country which has always characterized the Liberal leader and gained for him the well merited reputation as a Canadian patron of the purest and best type. In view of the fact that the avowed purpose of his mission is to gain a more intelligent insight into the capabilities and requirements of our province, it is a matter deeply to be regretted that this section, to which the term garden of British Columbia has been so frequently and appropriately applied, has not been brought to his notice by personal inspection. It is to the agricultural politicians of all creeds will make their most fervent appeals for support in the approaching election campaign, and certainly no portion of the province can so fully represent its agricultural and ranching wealth as our own district. Political sentiment on Dominion issues is here pretty well divided, and many whose party faith is of a somewhat neutral tint, would gladly have availed themselves of an opportunity to hear the trade policy of the opposition expounded by such speakers as Laurier and Fraser." It is unfortunate that Mr. Laurier's arrangements did not include a visit to Vernon, where he would certainly have been heartily welcomed, and where he would have had an appreciative and intelligent audience. The shortness of the time at his disposal was the obstacle.

CLEARLY STIPULATED.

None of His Money Goes to the "Low" Church.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Isaac Clarence Marsh makes this threat in his will: "If any of my money should be used in teaching what I have considered rank heresy while living, I would return in vengeance from my grave." Mr. Marsh was a "High Church" supporter, and the "rank heresy" he refers to is the "low" belief in Episcopal circles. The testator leaves the income of a $150,000 estate to his sister, Carry Louise Marsh for life, but upon her death it is to go to the Church of the Ascension, the typical "high church" of Chicago, presided over by Rev. Father Larrabee. This organization will continue a beneficiary as long as it continues in communion with the Episcopal Bishop of Chicago and follows the rites and ceremonies used in what is known as the "high church."

BRECKINRIDGE'S DEFEAT.

Owens Has a Majority of Two Hundred and Twenty-five.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 22.—A large delegation arrived this morning from the counties to be present at the counting of the returns of the primary race between Breckinridge and Owens. No trouble is expected, although there are numerous rumors, one to the effect that if the committee go behind the returns an injunction will be filed by the Owens men. Another is that the Breckinridge men on the committee will probably if voted down by the majority issue a protest to the people with a view to producing disaffection enough to defeat Owens. The count of votes of the counties gives Owens a plurality of 225.

CREEDON TALKS.

He Tells Something of His Inner Life—Makes no Secret of the Means He Employs to keep in Shape—His Manager Does not believe in Doctors.

From the St. Louis, Mo., Chronicle.

As September 20, the date set for the $5000 battle between Dan Creedon and Bob Fitzsimmons grows nearer its uncertainty grows greater and the interest of the sporting world increases. While Fitzsimmons will no doubt be a hot favorite in the betting, yet the truth of the matter is, that but very few have got a true line on Creedon. While the wise men of the ring who have come in touch with him, are saying but little out aloud, it is a well known fact that Fitzsimmons' followers are finding in a quiet way all the Creedon money they want.

Personally Fitzsimmons has always believed that Creedon was easy game. But then, Creedon has improved almost beyond belief since he came to this country. The instruction he received while helping to train Corbett for the Mitchell fight did him no end of good, while his method of living and manner of taking care of himself has greatly improved his condition.

Some time ago it was reported that Creedon was a victim of muscular rheumatism and that his days as a fighter had passed. This has no doubt taken many of the sporting fraternity over to the Fitzsimmons side.

Creedon is doing his training in St. Louis under the care of his foster brother, Tommy Tracy. He was seen in the office of his manager, Col. John D. Hopkins, by a Chronicle reporter, and among other things unbosomed himself regarding the muscular rheumatism story:

"In December last" (he laughed as the subject was broached) "I was giving sparring exhibitions with a variety and athletic company. We played a week's engagement in Boston. During Christmas week it was bitterly cold, the theatre in which we played was miserably heated behind the curtain. The dressing rooms were so cold that you could actually see your breath. My contract with the manager stipulated that I was to box two bouts of three rounds each, one of which was to be "try-out" with any local fighter of ambition to make me "bite the dust."

Though my task was not a severe one from a scientific point of view, the work was hard and monotonous and the perspiration streamed from my pores as I scampered from the stage to my dressing room. I resisted the shock of these sudden changes until the night before we closed our engagement, when, as I was dressing preparatory to leaving the theatre, a sickening chill penetrated my back, my legs ached and I suddenly became sick at the stomach. I drank two hot whiskeys in a neighboring saloon, hurried to my hotel and huddled up in bed.

"On the following morning on awakening, my right ankle was stiff and sore, and the muscles of my arm were swollen and pained excruciatingly.

"I rapidly grew worse. My physician ordered hot water bags to my feet and prescribed an alkali concoction for muscular rheumatism. Within a week I was unable to bear my weight upon my feet.

"I discharged my physician in despair and tried enough so-called rheumatism cures to stock a fair-sized drug store. By the advice of Col. John D. Hopkins, my manager, I purchased a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Col. Hopkins had read so much in the papers of the marvellous cures made by Pink Pills, and being a victim of periodical attacks of rheumatism, gave them a trial.

"Physicians be hanged, I have spent hundreds of dollars on 'em" [illegible] in Col. Hopkins.

"After using one box of Pink Pills," continued Creedon, "the pain gradually relaxed, my appetite improved, I started taking a second box, and the pain and the swelling disappeared from my ankles and feet, and the muscles of my arms were restored to their normal condition.

"I left for Jacksonville, Fla., New Year's day with "Billy" Delaney, trainer of Jim Corbett, to assist in preparing the champion for the international glove contest with Charley Mitchell. I had finished my second box of Pink Pills when I left Boston. The sudden change of climate, combined with the malarial atmosphere of Corbett's training quarters at Mayport, revived the pain in my muscles and I became alarmed at my condition.

"I went up to Jacksonville and secured another supply of Pink Pills. The marvellous effects of these pills almost baffles belief.

The Pink Pills battled successfully with the rheumatism and seeds of malaria planted in my system by the damp nights spent on the Florida coast. I was in condition to begin work with Corbett after a few days rest and was rapidly restored to health, [illegible] of my legs and arms being as strong and good as ever.

"I never in my life worked harder than during the Corbett training campaign at Mayport. The rheumatic troubles of a few weeks previous, were free from soreness and stiffness, as all visitors to Mayport who witnessed me play handball and speed over the hard sand of the beach can attest.

"A remarkable feature is that I plunged from the cold of the north into the dampness of the Florida climate after a rheumatic siege, taking no particular care of my health beyond the regularity of my Pink Pill treatment. I give you every detail of the case in order to end all further controversy about my condition. I never felt better in my life and barring accidents, will be ready to fight the fight of my life on Sept. 20th."

I hereby certify that the foregoing interview is truthful in every detail.

(Sig.) DAN CREEDON.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially valuable to athletes and those undergoing severe physical training. They act as a tonic and bracer, stimulate the whole system and keep the blood and nerves in "the pink of condition." These pills also effect a radical cure in all cases arising from overwork, mental worry or excesses of any nature. A TRAGEDY RECALLED.

The Part Robert Sproule Played in a Big Tacoma Land Contest.

An old soldier's claim to 1400 town lots in Tacoma is to be passed upon next winter by the United States supreme court, in the case of Anthony P. Carr v. William H. Fife and others, says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. It was before Judge Hanford in 1890, and at that time the land was valued at more than $2,000,000. The present valuation exceeds $1,000,000.

The land was taken up as a homestead in 1871 by Carr, who was a Union soldier, and who had served four years in the army during the civil war. In 1873 Carr's claim was jumped by Robert E. Sproule, the man who was hanged in Victoria in 1885, and over whose trial a great deal of diplomatic correspondence took place between this government and that of Great Britain. Sproule claimed that Carr had abandoned his claim, which Carr denied. Hon. John B. Allen, late United States senator, and his brother Joseph S. Allen, now a member of the capitol building commission, were Carr's attorneys. When Sproule began his contest against Carr, the land subsidy agents of the Northern Pacific railroad company—Governor John N. Goodwin, "Skookum" Smith and others—were actively engaged in securing donations of land as a bonus for the selection of Tacoma as the terminus of the road. Carr was not a cheerful giver; in fact, he was the most obstinate "kicker" on Commencement bay, and the relations between him and the railroad men became quite strained. The latter proved an over-match for him. He alleges that they got Sproule to jump his claim and that they railroaded his case through the land department at a high rate of speed, defeating Carr at every turn.

Carr was on the land one year and eleven months when Sproule initiated the contest against him; and having served four years in the army, for which he claims credit as residence on his homestead, his contention all along has been that his five years of residence was completed (with eleven months to spare) at the beginning of the contest, and that consequently his claim was not liable to be contested for abandonment. The register and receiver at Olympia made this singular decision in the case:

"From these occasional visits to the claim we can but draw the conclusion that said A. P. Carr did not wholly abandon his said claim, but we are more strongly of the opinion that the utter disregard of the spirit of this munificent law, which gives to the poor man, upon easy and reasonable terms, what he could not otherwise obtain, would, in equity, be sufficient ground for cancellation of his homestead entry."

Carr and his attorneys cite a decision of the commissioner of the general land office, made in the case of G. M. Burlingame about the time that Carr's homestead was cancelled, as follows:

"If the period of a soldier's actual residence upon and cultivation of the land embraced in his homestead entry, the same to be in no event less than one year, added to the term of his military service in the United States army, during the war of the rebellion, make up the five years required by the act of May [illegible] no further or settlement and cultivation is necessary to enable the party to perfect his entry; and he will not violate any legal requirement if, in that case, he should absent himself [illegible] made at any time within seven years from the date of his entry."

NEWS OF THE INTERIOR.

Laurier's Enthusiastic Reception at Kamloops.

Vernon News.

S. C. Smith and James Christie returned on Friday from an exploratory trip up the Spallumcheen river and Mabel lake, after timber limits. They express themselves as being well satisfied with the result of their tour, which extended over about a fortnight, during which time they thoroughly examed the river and circumnavigated the lake. Mr. Smith speaks very highly of the nature of the timber in this section; cedar ranging from eighteen inches to six feet in diameter is found in abundance, and a considerable quantity of white pine of an excellent quality may also be obtained. On one cedar limit which he estimates the quantity of timber to amount to about seven million feet on about five hundred acres. It will be necessary, however, before logs can be run down to Enderby, that the river be cleared out in several places where jams at present obstruct navigation.

Sir Sydney Parker, who hunted in this district last fall, came in on Wednesday of last week, and in company with Mr. Colville hastened on to join Sir Peter Walker's party, whom they overtook near Harris creek. They are after caribou, and will probably have a successful trip, as the snow which has recently fallen upon the mountains will make it an easy matter to track big game.

The Kamloops correspondent of the News, speaking of Hon. Wilfrid Laurier's visit, says: "The Pavilion hall was packed to its fullest capacity on Monday evening long before the arrival of the distinguished visitors, and a noticeable feature of the meeting was the great number of ladies present to listen to the discourse of the visitors on political economy. It is safe to say that Kamloops has never witnessed such a representative gathering to discuss Dominion politics. The visitors arrived at the hall at 8 p. m., and as Hon. Wilfrid Laurier proceeded to the platform he was greeted with a perfect storm of applause from the assembled audience.

Mr. R. H. Lee, mayor of Kamloops, as well as Mr. James Martin, mayor of the city of Vernon, were invited to the platform with the visitors, the latter gentleman coming here specially to attend the meeting.

Rev. A. Lee was asked to preside over the meeting as chairman, and after a few preliminaty remarks introduced Mr. Hyman, of London. After that gentleman had spoken the chairman introduced to the audience the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, "Canada's Silvery-tongued Orator," eulogizing that gentleman in the highest manner for his political record during the past twenty years. He then presented an address to Mr. Laurier on behalf of the Liberals of the city, welcoming him and hoping that his western pilgrimage would be productive of good results in bringing about greater freedom of trade, and stating that many had reached the opinion that the policy of the government had "been weighed in the balance and found wanting." Amid loud and long continued cheering Hon. Mr. Laurier arose to reply, and it was quite evident that his popularity as a public speaker had reached this province ahead of him, judging from the reception accorded him.

His speech lasted an hour and was listened to with the deepest attention. At the conclusion he received repeated outbursts of enthusiastic applause. The Messrs Gibson and Sutherland then followed in the order named with short, spicy speeches on tariff reform, their addresses bringing the meeting to a close. The hall was gaily decorated with flowers and tariff reform mottoes. The Pioneer band of Kamloops was present and discoursed music in their usual able manner.

Kaslo Times.

New Denver is the scene to-day of one of the most important deals in the Slocan country. The payment has been made of the Fisher Maiden and Silverton bond.

The amount of money paid over is not large, but it secures the opening up and working of one of the most promising mines in the Slocan.

Superintendent Jap King is hiring men and a big force will be put to work at once building a good trail and putting up buildings for winter. Ore shipments will begin at once; and 1500 tons will be rawhided to Silverton this winter. The present development of the property shows a very high grade chute of ore which varies in width from 11 to 21 inches. It assays 305 ounces to the ton.

A huge boulder of galena has been found in the wash near the new strike on the Idaho. It weighs over five tons. A team of horses could not stir it.

The first passenger coach came over the Nakusp & Slocan railway as far as Wilson creek this week.

To the Four-Mile district belongs the honor of making the first large shipment from one individual mine in the Slocan country. The shipments from the Alpha mine to the Omaha and Grant smelters, began last Monday and are being made in lots of 30 to 45 tons a day. From the wharf at Silverton the little steamer W. Hunter carries the ore to Wilson creek where it is transferred to the Nakusp & Slocan railway and carried by it to Nakusp. There the Columbia & Kootenay steam navigation company takes it over and lays it down at Revelstoke, from which point it handled by the C. P. R. Shipments from Silverton will average 250 tons a week, but from Nakusp to Revelstoke, only 200 tons a week can be handled.

The gross value of the ore is about $110 a ton, which gives a handsome net profit on mining, freight, duty and treatment. The mine is still producing at the rate of ten tons a day, and it is expected that at least one thousand tons will be marketed before shipments cease. The gross value of the ore will probably be sufficient to pay all the expenses of mining, transportation, including the cost of wagon road and tramway, duty and treatment, and, in addition, the price of the mine; in other words, the net profit on the ore will foot up to $70,000. There is no other mine in the world that has ever made such a record, or at least could have made it at the present price of silver.

Midway Advance.

The Le Roi mine in Trail creek has a ten drill air compressor now on the way from the east which cost $4500. Thirty men are employed continuously and the ore is being taken out as rapidly as the teams can haul it to the landing. Three car loads a week are being shipped. The shaft is now down three hundred feet, and from that level drifting is being done. The company is talking of putting on a steamer of its own to run between Trail creek and Northport.

Mr. Anderson, who has been diving for gold in the Similkameen, reports good results. About sixty men all told are placer mining on the stream south of the line—some with rockers, others sluicing—and state that they make between $1.50 and $3 a day.

The strike made at the head of Slate creek, over which there has been so much excitement, lies on the divide between Okanagan and Whatcom counties, in the Cascade range, a short distance below the line, in the Methow district.

The Rush and Oro groups of mines, which have been recently acquired by eastern capitalists, lie respectively on Mount Chepaca, near the Similkameen river, a few miles across the line, and on Mount Illemehan, near the mouth of Palmer lake, known as the cove. Both are considered low grade propositions, but are large bodies of ore, free milling on the surface.

According to the Okanagan Outlook, "four men are taking out $75 a day with rockers. They are obliged to carry the dirt about one hundred yards to water, which is supplied from the melting snow and is available only about four or five hours a day. This is the placer ground reported by Mr. Yeargin last fall. The discovery was made while prospecting for a quartz ledge.

The C. P. R. rate for one ton of ore sent from Penticton to Vancouver for test purposes is $1.06 for one hundred pounds, or $21.20. It is very unlikely that any test shipments will be made while this rate is in force.

THE LOWER MAINLAND.

Westminster Police After Chinese Fan Tan Players.

New Westminster, Sept. 21.—A carload of fresh sturgeon was shipped to New York to-day by the Fraser River Fishing Company.

The police raided a fan tan game last night and captured fourteen celestial gamblers. They will be tried on Tuesday and most of them have engaged good legal advice. A big fight is expected. So far no conviction in fan tan cases has been made to stick.

The rains of the past two weeks have done immense good to the crops planted in the Chilliwack valley since the flood, and if the good weather lasts for a few weeks the best barley crop on record will be harvested. Potatoes and other roots are coming on well.

Vancouver, Sept. 21.—The game protective association are very active in the city, and have employed detectives to watch their interests. They are at present considering the advisability of petitioning the government to make a close season for all game for an extended period of time, as at the present rate of slaughter British Columbia game will be a thing of the past in a very few years.

Indian Agent Devlin has just terminated an extended inspection among the northern tribes, and is in possession of enough Indian legends of great interest to fill a large volume.

The Yosemite left this evening with a full list of excursionists to the Tacoma fair.

A salmon packing industry will probably be carried on west of the C. P. R. wharf, government having conveyed a title of ownership to the foreshore to J. Spratt, of Spratt's Ark fame.

It is difficult to keep track of the petty robberies and sneak thievery that is now going on in the city, as the police decline to give any information. Geo. Dawson's residence was robbed of $35 by burglars last night.

NANAIMO NEWS.

Mayor Quenelle Mentioned as Conservative Candidate.

Nanaimo, Sept. 22.—A mass meeting of the temperance party is called for Sunday afternoon, to take place in St. Alban's church, when it is expected that building will be packed. The Lord Bishop of Columbia will address the meeting, and a pleasant and instructive time is expected.

The coal seam in the Protection Island saft continues to give increasing satisfaction to the company on account of the easy access to it and also on account of the fact that it is about twelve feet thick. Other portions of No. 1 shaft will shortly be opened up, but it is not expected that many more men will be employed.

The agricultural show to be opened here next Saturday is attracting much attention. The harvest has been a successful one, so that the various displays should be of an interesting and exceptional character.

The case of assault on a Chinaman by two young men was heard by Magistrate Planta yesterday, and was further adjourned in order to subpoena a large number of white men as witnesses.

Mayor Quennell has been named as the probable candidate for the Dominion election in the Conservative interests. As it is some time before the event it is quite possible that a change may be made.

TWO MORE SEALERS IN.

Diana and Katherine, With Good Catches, Arrived This Afternoon.

Two sealers, the Diana, from the Russian side, and the Katherine, from Behring sea, arrived home this afternoon. The Diana, Captain Nelson, arrived at an anchorage in James Bay shortly after one o'clock. She got a very good catch, taking 2394 skins on the Japan and Russian coasts. She left Copper islands on September 1, and was therefore 22 days making the trip. She did not speak a single vessel of any kind on the way home and had a generally uneventful voyage. She was very lucky, not being in a single gale during the whole season. She spoke the San Francisco schooner Rattler with 1250 skins on the last day in August. On March 24th a boat was upset and three guns lost overboard.

The schooner Katherine, Captain Gould, dropped her anchor at two o'clock in James Bay. She came directly from Behring sea, leaving there on September 7th. She got 1059 skins in the sea. She spoke the schooner Venture with 1000 on September 6th and the Ainoko with 1000 on September 1. The latter had her boats out that day and they were doing well, and Captain Gould said this afternoon that he believed she must have had 1200 or 1400 before he left the sea for home. The captain of the Katherine did not speak or hear from any other schooners immediately before his departure. The Katherine was boarded once by the Korwin, but saw several other U. S. patrol vessels.

The City of San Diego arrived home from the Copper islands last night. She has a catch of 1550 skins, and reports the Sadie Turpel with 2100, the Mermaid with 1950, the Pioneer with 1300 and Mattie Turner of San Francisco with 1160. Her cruise was free from any accidents of any importance.

IOWA CYCLONE.

Several Towns Damaged and Lives Lost.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 22.—The northeast part of Cerro, Gordon county, was swept by a hurricane last night. Two people were killed and much damage done.

The latest from Lowther is that three persons were killed and seven injured. Reports from Spring valley say the cyclone last night did great damage. There are seven persons believed to lie dead among the ruins of houses. Twenty are reported injured. The people were all in bed when the storm struck the place. Many lay all night pinned down by the timbers of their houses.

Brief Locals.

—The body of John B. Carmichael, drowned last Monday, has not yet been found.

—The Astoria schooner Louis Olsen has been purchased by Captain Williams and in future Victoria will be her home port.

—The steamship Victoria, of the N. P. line, is hourly expected from the Orient. She had not been reported up to 3:30 o'clock.

—Charles Ramos, the lessee of the Slough Creek property and organizer of the Slough Creek Mining company, is staying at the Oriental hotel. The prospectus of the company, which owes its authorship to Mr. Ramos individually, has done more in the past four years to advertise the Cariboo district than all the capital that has been expended on high salaried experts from California, and it is hoped that the predictions of the invincible Charlie, that Cariboo is the richest gold field on the continent of America, will prove correct and that he will be rewarded for his perseverance in maintaining his opinion against odds.

—The "crusade week" of the W. C. T. U. began yesterday and will continue until September 27th, which is Miss Willard's birthday. On Thursday next there will be a parlor social at Mrs. Dempster's home on Fernwood road. At the latter a life sketch will be given by Mrs. Reid.

—Ald. H. A. Munn has bulletined the following important notice of motion: "That as a preliminary step towards laying down a permanent pavement on the principal business streets of the city, the Victoria Tramway & Lighting company, the Victoria Gas company and other companies or persons enjoying similar privileges on the public streets, be notified that such permanent improvement is contemplated by the corporation and will be undertaken as soon as practicable after the completion of the sewer contracts, and that they be informed that it is desirable that any alterations which would prevent a frequent disturbance of the pavement should be made as soon as possible, and that the attention of the water commissioner be called to the matter."

SMELLING THE BEAN SAUCE.

A Japanese Story of a Wideawake Judge.

There was in Yedo a poor man who had worked hard and long, and had saved a small sum of money. He had no strong box to keep it in, and it occurred to him that if he dropped it inside an empty bean sauce cask, no one would ever think of looking there for it. Now this bean sauce is much used by poor people; but the smell is very strong and somewhat offensive to persons of delicate taste. Some ingenious thief, after all, did discover the hiding place, for one day the poor man found his money missing. He went immediately to Oka and told him of his loss, adding that he thought it must be laid to the charge of some one of his neighbors. So Oka summoned all of the poor man's neighbors for the next day, and when they had appeared in court, Oka announced, "In my opinion it is one of you that has stolen the money from the bean sauce cask, and if that is so, I shall be able to tell by the smell of the thief's fingers. So let each one come up here and present his hands in turn." Just as he said this he noticed one of the men in the back of the court room suddenly put his hand to his nose and smell it. "That man over there is the thief!" immediately exclaimed the judge, pointing to the man.

Oka knew, you see, that if the thief was really among the crowd, his guilty conscience would probably suggest to him the thought, "Will my hands really betray me?"—Harper's Young People.

WOMAN RUDE TO WOMAN.

Feminine Courtesy and Where It Is Displayed.

In conversation with a man whose business brings him daily and hourly in contact with the caprices and whims of women, says the Philadelphia Times, the subject of woman's rudeness to woman was touched upon, and this able critic said:

"If any one is under the delusion that women are more courteous than men in their dealings with each other, just let that party stand in my place for one hour, and their opinion will undergo a sad change.

"In this establishment we are constantly having large sales that are widely advertised and naturally attract great crowds. Just note the difference in behavior whether it is an assemblage of men or one of women on hand to secure the bargains. In the former instance they may stand five or even six deep around a counter where suits are selling like hot cakes to the fortunate few in first place, but you never see any of the less favored ones knocking off hats or scrambling helter skelter, regardless of any such feeble impediment as another individual standing in the way. No, the men are decorous and well behaved, while the women let their nerves and their tempers get the best of them, and do not scruple to call each other names and tear each other's garments in their desire to get the best of the bargains, and they are well dressed women, too.

"Even when a sale of that sort is not on you should see the fierce looks and listen to the fiercer remarks of the woman who loses a remnant on which she has set her heart and which another grabbed away while her head was turned for a moment. Gentleness and feminine mildness is then an unknown quantity. I am not a woman hater, only a woman observer, and though I hate to be forced to appear ungallant, I only speak the truth."

If you have sick or nervous headache, take Ayer's Carthartic Pills. They will cleanse the stomach, restore healthy action to the digestive organs, remove effete matter (the presence of which depresses the nerves and brain), and thus give speedy relief.

ALIX'S COUSIN STOLEN.

New York, Sept. 22.—A $4,000 bay mare, full cousin to Alix the trotting queen, was stolen from White Plains at 10 p.m. Wednesday and the whole police force of this city was asked by Supt. Byrnes through a general alarm yesterday to look out for the animal. The mare belongs to Joseph B. Lawrence, a dentist of No. 217 West 125th street.

CRICKET.

ENGLAND AND AMERICA.

Philadelphia, Sept. 22.—Play in the international cricket match between the gentlemen of Philadelphia v. Lord Hawke's eleven was resumed to-day. When the play ended yesterday the visitors' score at the end of the first innings was 187. The Americans, who were the last at the bat, scored 74 runs for three wickets. This morning the score was run up to 157 before the seventh wicket went down.

YACHTING.

VIGILANT'S PROGRAMME.

New York, Sept. 22.—First Officer Hoff, of the yacht Vigilant, arrived from Southampton on the steamer Paris to-day. He said yacht racing in England was no joke. The men had to work about five times as hard in a race over there as they did over here. He declared that if the courses were longer the Vigilant would have won every race. He thought Gould would challenge in the spring for the Cape May cup, and bring the Vigilant over in time for the summer cruise of the New York yacht club. He refused to discuss the work of the English pilot in charge of the Vigilant during the race.

LACROSSE.

MONTREAL vs. SHAMROCKS.

Montreal, Sept. 22.—Montreal vs. Shamrocks at Montreal. First game, Montreal, 7 minutes; second, Shamrocks, 3 minutes; third, Shamrocks, 17 minutes; Patterson, of Montreal, was ruled off for cross checking in this game; fourth, Shamrocks, 2 minutes; fifth, Montreal, 1 minute; sixth Shamrocks, 6 minutes; seventh, Shamrocks, 2 minutes; eighth, Shamrocks, 7 minutes; ninth, Shamrocks, 15 minutes; tenth, Shamrocks, 7 minutes. Match finished.

Teams of printers made up from the Province and the Colonist offices are playing lacrosse at the Caledonia grounds this afternoon. A great game is expected. D. Mark-Carley, of the Home Journal, will organize a team to play the winners.

FOOTBALL.

GENTLEMEN OF VICTORA vs. VICTORA COLLEGE.

CITY AMBULANCE.

For Use In Connection With the Infectious Diseases Hospital.

A few months ago the mayor and council decided that an ambulance must be procured for the infectious diseases suspect station and hospital and it was also decided that the same should be built in the city, provided the work could be done at not too great a cost. The committee called for competition plans and prices, resulting in favor of Mr. Brayshaw, with others pressing him close. It has been built complete for the sum of $300, being over $200 less than the cost of the Dupont ambulance.

Excepting the bare requirements and a few suggestions, Mr. Brayshaw was allowed full latitude as to the manner of construction, which is all the more credit to the committee in charge, their aim being to place the job in the hands of competent workmen and afterwards allow them to know something, with the result that the city has a more suitable carriage for the sick, at a much less cost, besides being home production. Unlike the Dupont, there is nothing in its construction that could be left out, the body being lightly built, with bent bows, covered with seasoned wood 3-8 of an inch thick with all corners well rounded out to allow of easy disinfection. The front and back is covered by heavy canvas curtains to admit of air as required. The stretcher is made of canvas in the usual way, but instead of being swung from the roof with hard coil springs, it rests on the bottom with four spring steel legs and at one side is a folding seat for the attendant. The body is supported in front by a full platform steel gear which received the highest award at the British Columbia agricultural show in 1893. The hind springs also are full platform and made expressly for this purpose by the builder, which is something that few factories in the east could undertake, and when the sick man sets foot on the low easy step he will thank the council of 1894 for at least doing something to alleviate the sufferings of the unfortunate.
